Rhy. Herald, March 1, 1907, (p 6)

OUR PROSPEROUS NEIGHBORS.

It would require something altogether extraordinary to stop or stay the boom that has struck the Lee-Echo and Skidoo districts. The rush is much like that which prevailed when Rhyolite first came on the map two years ago, and the indications are just as assuring that some new and substantial mining communities will be built up as the result of the present display of energy. When one looks over the prospects in the Lee-Echo and Skidoo sections he is apt to wonder why these districts have not boomed before, but the same question might be asked of all the new camps. Not all the good things happen at once. Goldfield followed Tonopah, and Bullfrog and Manhattan came along soon after Goldfield, while Fairview, Wonder and Round Mountain fell into line soon after. Lee-Echo and Skidoo are having their turn at public favor, and promise to be here to stay. Both the Lee-Echo and Skidoo sections are tributary to Rhyolite, and local boosters are doing everything possible to forward the interests of the new camps. The Lee-Echo boom is largely due to the enterprise of Rhyoliters who have entrenched themselves firmly upon the ground floor, both in the mining properties and in the townsite booms. We can't have too many gold, silver and copper mines in this part of the desert, and we have too many good mines here at home to be jealous of our young and pretentious near neighbors. These are the polliwogs that are being fostered by the great Bullfrog.

manvel (barnwell)

"Passing of Manvel," Las Vegas Age, June 22, 1907, (p 6).

"A recent act of the postoffice department marks the complete passing of the old desert town of Manvel. For more than 20 years, Manvel has been a well known desert supply point, at the terminus of a branch from the Santa Fe. Upon extending the railroad to Searchlight, Manvel assumed more importance and so conflicted with other towns of the same name on the Santa Fe. The railroad for this reason changed the name to Barnwell, followed by Wells Fargo and recently by the post department."
